Welcome to the Callan Method

Learning English with the Callan™ Method is fast and effective!

The Callan Method is a teaching method created specifically to improve your English in an intensive atmosphere. The teacher is constantly asking questions, so you are hearing and using the language as much as possible. When you speak in the lesson, the teacher corrects your grammar and pronunciation mistakes, and you learn a lot from this correction.

The Callan Method teaches English vocabulary and grammar in a carefully programmed way, with systematic revision and reinforcement. In the lesson, there is a lot of speaking and listening practice, but there is also reading and writing so that you revise and consolidate what you have learned.

With the Callan Method, the teacher speaks quickly so that you learn to understand English when it is spoken at natural speed. This also means that everyone is concentrating hard all the time.

English in a quarter of the time

The Callan Method can teach English in a quarter of the time taken by any other method on the market. Instead of the usual 350 hours necessary to get the average student to the level of the Cambridge Preliminary English Test (PET), the Callan Method can take as little as 80 hours, and only 160 hours for the Cambridge First Certificate in English (FCE).

The method is suitable for students of all nationalities, and ages. It requires no equipment (not even a whiteboard) or other books, and can be used for classes at private schools, state schools and universities. It is also possible for students to use the books to practise with each other when they are not at school.

In addition to this, students can practise their English online using the interactive exercises, which are available to students who study at licensed schools. Ask your school for details.

The Callan Method in practice

A Callan Method English lesson is probably very different from lessons you have done in the past. You do not sit in silence, doing a reading comprehension test or a grammar exercise from a book. You do not have 'free conversation', where you only use the English you already feel comfortable with. Of course, activities like this can help you, but you can do them at home with a book, or in a coffee bar. In a Callan Method lesson, you are busy with important activities that you cannot do outside the classroom. You are listening to English all the time. You are speaking English a lot, and all your mistakes are corrected. You learn quickly because you are always surrounded by English. There is no silence and no time to get bored or lose your concentration. And it is also fun!

So, what exactly happens in a Callan Method lesson, and how does it work?

The teacher asks you questions

The Callan Method books are full of questions. Each question practises a word, an expression, or a piece of grammar. The teacher is standing, and asks the questions to the students one by one. You never know when the teacher will ask you, so you are always concentrating. When one student finishes answering one question, the teacher immediately starts to ask the next question.

The teacher speaks quickly

The teacher in a Callan Method lesson speaks quickly. This is because, in the real world, it is natural to speak quickly. If you want to understand normal English, you must practise listening to quick natural speech and become able to understand English without first translating into your language. This idea of not translating is at the centre of the Callan Method; this method helps you to start thinking in English.

Also, we do not want you to stop and think a lot about the grammar while you are speaking. We want you to speak as a reflex, instinctively. And do not worry about mistakes. You will, naturally, make a lot of mistakes in the lessons, but Callan Method teachers correct your mistakes, and you learn from the corrections. When you go home, of course it will help if you read your book, think about the grammar, study the vocabulary, and do all the things that language students do at home – but the lessons are times to practise your listening and speaking, with your books closed!

The teacher says every question twice, and helps you with the answer

In the lesson, the teacher speaks quickly, so we say the questions twice. This way, you have another chance to listen if you did not understand everything the first time.

The teacher then immediately says the beginning of the answer. This is to help you (and 'push' you) to start speaking immediately. So, for example:

Teacher: "Are there two chairs in this room? Are there two chairs in this room? No, there aren't ..."

Student (immediately): "No, there aren't two chairs in this room; there are twelve chairs in this room."

If the teacher does not 'push' you by giving you the beginning of the answer, you might start to think too much, and translate into your language.

The teacher will speak along with you all the time while you are saying your answer. So, if you forget a word or you are not sure what to say, you will always hear the next word or two from the teacher. You should repeat after the teacher, but immediately try again to continue with the answer yourself. You must always try to continue speaking, and only copy the teacher when you cannot continue alone. That way, you will become more confident and learn more quickly. Never simply wait for help from the teacher and then copy – you will not improve so quickly.

Long answers, with the same grammar as the question

We want you to practise your speaking as much as possible, so you always make complete sentences when you speak in the lesson, using the same grammatical structure as in the question. For example:

Teacher: "About how many pages are there in this book?"

Student: "There are about two hundred pages in that book."

In this way, you are not just answering a question; you are making full sentences with the vocabulary and the grammar that you need to learn.

Correction by imitation

With the Callan Method, the teacher corrects all your mistakes the moment you make them. The teacher corrects you by imitating (copying) your mistake and then saying the correct pronunciation/form of the word. For example, if you say "He come from Spain", the teacher quickly says "not come - comes". This correction by imitation helps you to hear the difference between your mistake and the proper English form. You should immediately repeat the correct word and continue with your sentence. You learn a lot from this correction of your mistakes, and constant correction results in fast progress.

Contracted forms

In the lesson, the teacher uses contractions (e.g. the teacher says "I don't" instead of "I do not"). This is because it is natural to use contractions in spoken English and you must learn to understand them. Also, if you want to sound natural when you speak, you must learn to use contractions.

Lesson structure

Every school is different, but a typical 50-minute Callan lesson will contain about 35 minutes of speaking, a 10-minute period for reading, and a 5-minute dictation. The reading practice and the dictation are often in the middle of the lesson.

In the reading part, you read and speak while the teacher helps you and corrects your mistakes. In the dictation, you practise your writing, but you are also listening to the teacher. So, a 50-minute Callan lesson is 50 minutes of spoken English with no silence!

No chatting

Although the Callan Method emphasises the importance of speaking practice, this does not mean chatting (free conversation). You learn English quickly with the Callan Method partly because the lessons are organised, efficient, fast and busy. There is no time wasted on chatting; this can be done before or after the lesson.

Chatting is not a good way to spend your time in an English lesson. First, only some of the students speak. Second, in a chat, people only use the English that they already know. Third, it is difficult for a teacher to correct mistakes during a conversation.

The Callan Method has none of these problems. All through the lesson, every student is listening and speaking, practising different vocabulary and structures, and learning from the correction of their mistakes. And nobody has time to get bored!

Repeat, repeat, repeat!

Systematic revision

In your native language, you sometimes read or hear a word that you do not already know. You usually need to read or hear this new word only once or twice in order to remember it and then use it yourself. However, when you are learning a foreign language, things are very different. You need to hear, see and use words and grammatical structures many times before you really know them properly. So your studies must involve a system of revision (repeating what you have studied before). This is absolutely essential. If there is no system of revision in your studies, you will forget what you have studied and will not be able to speak or understand better than before.

In every Callan Method lesson, of course you learn new English, practise it, and progress through your book. However, you also do a lot of revision so that you can really learn what you have studied. Your teacher can decide how much revision your class needs, but it will always be an important part of your studies.

Also, because there is a lot of revision, it is not important for you to understand everything the first time; it gets easier. The revision with Callan is automatic and systematic. Every day you do a lot of revision and then learn some new English.

Revision in reading and dictation too

The reading and dictation practice in the lessons is part of Callan's systematic revision as well. First, you learn a new word in the speaking part of the lesson; a few lessons later, you meet it again when you are reading; finally, the word appears in a dictation. This is all written into the Callan Method; it happens automatically.

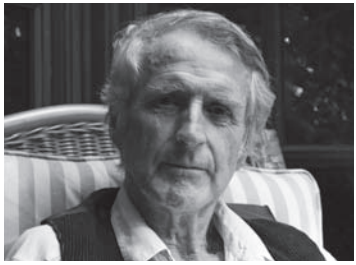

Correcting your dictations

With the Callan Method, there is little or no homework to do, but it is very important that you correct your dictations. These are printed in your book and so you can easily correct them at home, on the bus, or wherever. It is important to do this because it helps you to learn the written forms of the words you have already studied in earlier lessons.

Your first lessons with the Callan Method

During your first lesson with the Callan Method, all of the questions and some of the vocabulary are new for you; you have not done any revision yet. For this reason, the teacher may not ask you many questions. You can sit and listen, and become more familiar with the method - the speed, the questions, the correction etc.

History of the Callan Method – Robin Callan

Robin Callan is the creator of the Callan Method. He owns the Callan School in London's Oxford Street. He also runs Callan Publishing Limited, which supplies Callan Method books to schools all over the world.

Robin Callan grew up in Ely, Cambridgeshire, England. In his early twenties, he went to Italy to teach English in Salerno. Although he enjoyed teaching, Robin thought that the way in which teachers were expected to teach their lessons was inefficient and boring. He became very interested in the mechanisms of language learning, and was sure that he could radically improve the way English was taught.

He remained in Italy and started to write his own books for teaching English. He used these in his own classes and, over the following ten years, gained an immense amount of practical experience and a reputation for teaching English quickly and effectively.

When he returned to England, he opened his school in Oxford Street. As the method became more and more popular with students, the school grew and moved to larger premises. Robin continued to write his Callan Method books, and today the method is used by schools all over the world.

Robin Callan has always been passionate about English literature, especially poetry. For this reason, he bought The Orchard Tea Garden in Grantchester, near Cambridge, which attracts thousands of tourists each year. Throughout the 20th century, it was a popular meeting place for many famous Cambridge University students and important figures from English literature, such as Rupert Brooke, Virginia Woolf and E.M. Forster. Today, it is also home to the Rupert Brooke Museum.

Mr Callan now lives in Grantchester, but still plays an active role in the management of the Callan School in London.

The Callan School in London's Oxford Street

The largest private school in London

The Callan School in Oxford Street is the largest private school in London teaching English as a foreign language. Depending on the time of year, the school employs between 60 and 100 teachers and has an average of 1600 students passing through its doors every day. This number rises to more than 2000 in the middle of summer, similar to a small university.

How Callan Method Stages compare to CEFR* levels and University of Cambridge General English exams

 Common European Framework of Reference*

It is difficult to compare the Callan Method books directly with the CEFR levels and Cambridge exams, but below is an approximate guide.

STAGE 7

LESSON 95

505 race

Do you like to see two cars racing each other along the road?
Yes, I like ... ~ No, I don't like ...

Why or why not?

Could you race me to the station and back without stopping?
Yes, I could ... ~ No, I couldn't ...

If you ran in a race against a horse, who'd win? If I ran in a race ..., the horse'd win realize consequence rat ambition

Do you think that, when a man murders someone, he really realizes what he is doing at the time and realizes the consequences of his actions?
Yes, I think ... ~ No, I don't think ...

Did you realize that, in some large cities in the world, there are more rats than people? Yes, I realized ... ~ No, I didn't realize ...

Have you got an ambition? Yes, I've got ... ~ No, I haven't got ...

What's your ambition? My ambition is to ...

Do you think you'll ever realize your ambition? Yes, I think I'll ... ~ No, I don't think I'll ever ...

Why or why not?

506 The pronunciation of "-ed" in the past tense of regular verbs

When the past tense of a regular verb ends in the letters "ded" or "ted", the final sound is pronounced "id" /ɪd/. For example:

needed /ˈniːdɪd/ decided /dɪˈsaɪdɪd/

wanted /ˈwɒntɪd/ tasted /ˈteɪstɪd/

When the past tense of a regular verb ends in "ded" or "ted", how do we pronounce the final sound? When the past tense ..., we pronounce the final sound "id" /ɪd/

Give me some examples, please. included, lasted etc.

When the past tense of a regular verb does not end in the letters "ded" or "ted", the final sound is pronounced "t" /t/ or "d" /d/. For example:

asked /ɑ:skt/	touched /tʌtʃt/
realized /ˈri:əlaɪzd/	phoned /fəʊnd/

When the past tense of a regular verb does not end in "ded" or "ted", how do we pronounce the final sound? When the past tense ..., we pronounce the final sound "t" /t/ or "d" /d/

Give me some examples, please. crossed, seemed etc.

507 lead – led – led

What does the verb "to lead" mean? The verb "to lead" means ...

What are the three forms of "lead"? The three forms of "lead" are "lead, led, led"

If I travelled north along the main road leading out of this town, where'd it lead me to? If you travelled ..., it'd lead you ...

If it were night time, and very dark, and we came to an old house standing alone in the country which we thought might be full of ghosts, would you be willing to lead the way into the house? Yes, if it were ... and we came ... which we thought ..., I'd be ... ~ No, if it were ... and we came ... which we thought ..., I wouldn't be ...

Why or why not?

Would you say you'd led a fairly comfortable life? Yes, I'd say ... ~ No, I wouldn't say ...

eventually take care of break down

When we are talking about the future, we use the word "eventually" when we know that something is going to happen but we don't know when. For example, "We will all eventually die, but we don't know when".

When we're talking about the future, when do we use the word "eventually"?

When we're talking ..., we use the word "eventually" ...

Give me an example, please.

I will eventually be able to speak English very well

508 Will it eventually rain again?

Yes, it'll eventually rain again

When?

We don't know

If you had a car and you didn't take care of it, what'd eventually happen?

If I had ..., it'd eventually break down

When a car breaks down, are you any good at making it go again?

Yes, when a car ... ~ No, when a car ...

Do you think mobile phones will all eventually have touch screens?

Yes, I think ... ~ No, I don't think ...

When we are talking about the past, the word "eventually" means "after all that" or "in the end". For example, "I spent a long time in the bookshop but eventually decided not to buy anything".

When we are talking about the past, what does the word "eventually" mean?

When we are talking about the past, the word "eventually" means "after all that" or "in the end"

Give me an example, please.

He lived in different countries for many years but eventually bought a house in England supply

Do you have to supply your own pen and paper for doing dictations or does the school supply you with them?

I have to supply my own ... ~ The school supplies me with ...

Do you know where this town gets its water supply from?

Yes, I know ... ~ No, I don't know ...

509 sink – sank – sunk

float drown

If you put a piece of iron onto water, would it float? No, if I put ...; it'd sink

What are the three forms of "sink"? The three forms of "sink" are "sink, sank, sunk"

When did the Titanic sink? The Titanic sank in 1912

Do clouds float across the sky when it's a very windy day? No, clouds don't float ...; they race across the sky

be on the safe side

If we say we do something "to be on the safe side", it means that we do it so that there is no risk of something bad happening. For example, "We don't know how much money we'll need, so let's take a credit card too, just to be on the safe side".

Give me an example of the expression "to be on the safe side".

Let's catch an earlier train to the airport to be on the safe side

Do you always carry an umbrella in winter just to be on the safe side?

Yes, I always carry ...

conquer

Do you think that one day in the future one country will conquer all the others? Yes, I think that ... ~ No, I don't think that ...

510 tide

What's the difference between high tide and low tide? The difference between ... is that high tide is when the sea comes into the land and low tide is when it goes out away from the land govern

How is your country governed? My country is governed by ...

Dictation 61

As he has won/ several thousand pounds,/ he now has no need/ to borrow someone else's car;/ he can now own one himself./ The wire cut into his skin/ and hurt him badly./ The cook let the meat boil/ for too long,/ so now it's impossible to eat./ You'll need a lot more bricks/ to finish that wall./ Twelve inches make a foot;/ three feet make a yard./ The cost of living/ seems to be constantly rising./ Is there anywhere/ I can buy a daily paper?

LESSON 96

511 a few few

feel sorry for someone

The difference between "a few" and "few" is that "a few" simply means "not many", whereas "few" often expresses the idea of "not enough" or "fewer than expected". If somebody says that they have a few friends, they mean "not many, but some"; they are probably happy with the number of friends they have. However, if somebody says that they have few friends, they mean that they don't have enough friends and that they would like more. If we say "There were few people at the party last night", we mean that there were not enough people at the party, or that there were fewer people than we had expected.

What's the difference between "a few" and "few"?

The difference between "a few" and "few" is that "a few" simply means "not many", whereas "few" often expresses the idea of "not enough" or "fewer than expected"

What do we mean if we say there were few people at the party last night?

If we say ..., we mean that there were not enough people at the party, or that there were fewer people than we had expected

Would you feel sorry for someone who said that they had few friends?

Yes, I'd feel ...

Would you feel sorry for someone who said that they had a few friends?

No, I wouldn't feel ...

In this town, are there few good restaurants, a few good restaurants, or many good restaurants?

In this town, there are ...

512 a little little

The difference between "a little" and "little" is the same as that between "a few" and "few".

"A little" simply means "not much", whereas "little" often expresses the idea of "not enough" or "less than expected". If somebody says that they have a little money, they mean "not much, but some"; they probably have enough. However, if somebody says that they have little money, they mean that they don't have enough money and that they need more. If we say "There has been little rain this month", we mean that there has been less rain than we had expected.

What's the difference between "a little" and "little"?
The difference between "a little" and "little" is that "a little" simply means "not much", whereas "little" often expresses the idea of "not enough" or "less than expected"

What do I mean if I say I have little milk in my fridge?
If you say you have little milk in your fridge, you mean that you don't have enough milk in your fridge

Do you think you have little free time, a little free time, or a lot of free time? I think I have ...

press control such

What am I doing? You're pressing your thumb on the table

What does this sentence mean: "I had to press him for the money I'd lent him"? That sentence means that I had to keep asking him for it back

Can we always believe everything we read about famous people in the press? No, we can't always ...

513 Do you think there should be some control over what the press writes about such people? Yes, I think ... ~ No, I don't think ...

step step off

About how many steps would you have to take to walk from one end of this room to the other? I'd have to take about ... steps to walk from ...

What might happen if you stepped off a bus while it was still moving?
If I stepped off ..., I might fall

Do you have to walk up any steps to enter this building? Yes, I have to ... ~ No, I don't have to ...

Would it be a big step for you to go and live in another country? Yes, i t'd be ... ~ No, it wouldn't be ...

bill come to per quarter

pass (a law) act

If a couple go to a restaurant together, do you think they should each pay half the bill? Yes, if a couple ...,
I think they should ... ~ No,
if a couple ..., I don't think they should ...

Why or why not?

About how much does your phone (or electricity or gas) bill generally come to per month (or per quarter etc.) My phone bill ... about ... per ...

514 What happens to a bill after it has been passed by parliament?
After a bill ..., it becomes an act used to

We use the words "used to" for a habit or repeated action in the past, especially when the action is now finished. For example, the sentence "I used to go to the cinema every Saturday afternoon" means that I was in the habit of going to the cinema every Saturday afternoon, but not now.

When do we use the words "used to", and what does it mean?
We use ... for a habit or repeated action in the past, especially when the action is now finished

Give me an example, please. I used to go to the cinema a lot when I was a child

Did you use to speak English better in the past than you speak it now?
No, I didn't use to ...; I used to speak it worse ...

Did you use to eat a lot of sweets when you were a child?
Yes, I used to ... ~ No, I didn't use to ...

B.C. A.D. Christ Lord

The letters "B.C." mean "before Christ", and the letters "A.D." mean "anno domini" (in Latin) meaning "in the year of our Lord", although we usually think of this as meaning "after Christ". For example, "500 B.C." means 500 years before Christ, whilst 500 A.D. means 500 years after Christ.

What do the letters "B.C." mean? The letters ... "before Christ"

515 What do the letters "A.D." mean? The letters ... "anno domini" (from the Latin) meaning ... "after Christ"

When someone is on trial, do they have to promise to tell the truth in court? Yes, when someone ..., they have to ...

Is it wise to judge something before we give it a trial? No, it isn't wise ...

Why not?

What'd you like to see introduced into your country from abroad?
I'd like to see ... introduced into my ...

Dictation 62

Before they could ride the horse,/ they had to catch it./ Smoking is a bad habit./ He walked into the living room,/ loosened his jacket,/ sat down and took out his diary./ Although he is a Member of Parliament,/ he is not a member/ of any political club,/ even though he should be/ if he wants to succeed./ "At once" means immediately,/ whereas "soon" means in a short time.

Do Revision Exercise 41

516 not ... either

We generally use the words "also", "as well" and "too" in positive sentences, but in negative sentences we use "not ... either". For example, we say "I like fish and I like meat too", but in the negative we say "I don't like fish and I don't like meat either". Or we say "I have a sister and David has one as well", but in the negative we say "I don't have a sister and David doesn't have one either".

Can we use the words "also", "as well" and "too" in negative sentences?
No, we can't use ...

Which word do we use instead? — We use the word "either" instead

Give me an example, please. — He doesn't watch TV or listen to the radio either

Do you live in this school? — No, I don't ...

Do the other students live in this school? — No, the other students don't ... either

Can you speak Chinese? — No, I can't ...

Can you speak Japanese? — No, I can't ... either

Will you come here next Saturday? — No, I won't ...

Will you come here next Sunday? — No, I won't ... either

517 definitely

Tell me something that you know you'll definitely do next weekend.
I know that I'll definitely ... next weekend

Would you like to live a life of adventure? — Yes, I'd like to ... ~ No, I wouldn't like to ...

Why or why not?

seed

What does a seed need to grow in a garden? A seed needs water ...

Present continuous for the future

arrange make an arrangement

As we know, we use "to be going to" to communicate a future intention. For example, the sentence "We're going to go to the theatre" suggests that we have already decided to go to the theatre; it is our intention to go.

However, we can also use the present continuous and say "We're going to the theatre" if we want to communicate that the visit has already been arranged; we have already bought the tickets, for example.

518 What's the difference between "We're going to go to the theatre" and "We're going to the theatre"? The difference between "We're going to go to the theatre" and "We're going to the theatre" is that "We're going to go to the theatre" communicates that it is our intention to go, whereas "We're going to the theatre" communicates that the visit has already been arranged; we already have the tickets, for example

Have you made any arrangements for this afternoon (or evening)? Yes, I've made some arrangements for this afternoon (or evening); I'm meeting a friend etc. ~ No, I haven't made any arrangements for this afternoon (or evening)

Are you coming to school tomorrow? Yes, I'm coming ... ~ No, I'm not coming ...

Are you going away next weekend? Yes, I'm going ... ~ No, I'm not going ...

Do you know what he/she is doing after the lesson? No, I don't know ...

Ask him/her, please. What are you doing after the lesson?

bear – bore – borne

What's another verb we can use instead of the verb "to carry"?

Another verb we ... is the verb "to bear"

What are the three forms of "bear"?

The three forms of "bear" are "bear, bore, borne"

Do you think you could bear the weight of this table on your back?

Yes, I think I could ...
~ No, I don't think I could ...

519 What kind of things can't you bear?

The kind of things I can't bear are ...

Who was the last child your mother bore?

The last child ...

What's the greatest physical pain you've ever borne?

The greatest physical pain ... was ...

on upon

There's no difference between the words "on" and "upon" except that the word "on" is much more common.

What's the difference between the words "on" and "upon"?

There's no difference between ...

whole on the whole

Could you eat a whole chicken?

Yes, I could eat ...
~ No, I couldn't eat ...

Would you say that, on the whole, life was better today than it was in the past?

524 ## How to make a question

To make a question with the present simple and the past simple, we use the auxiliary verb "do". For example, the statement "She eats too much" becomes "Does she eat too much?", and the statement "She bought a bicycle yesterday" becomes "Did she buy a bicycle yesterday?" Remember that we always use an infinitive without "to" after the auxiliary verb "do". We cannot say "Did you went?"; we must say "Did you go?"

How do we make a question with the present simple and the past simple?

We make a question with the present simple and the past simple by using the auxiliary verb "do"

Give me some examples, please. Do you want some tea?
Did she see the film last night?

With verbs that already contain one or more auxiliaries, we make a question by putting the subject after the first auxiliary verb. For example, the statement "She has been eating" becomes "Has she been eating?"

And how do we make a question with verbs that already contain one or more auxiliaries? With verbs that ...

Give me an example, please. Are you going to go to the party?

Now, I will say a statement and I want you to change it into a question:

Do Revision Exercise 42

LESSON 99

529 at last lastly

We use the expression "at last" when we feel that we have been waiting for a long time for something to happen and then it happens. For example, if you agree to meet a friend one evening but they arrive very late, you might say "Here you are, at last!"

When do we use the expression "at last"? We use the expression "at last" ...

Give me an example, please. Ah, here you are, at last! Where have you been?

We use the word "lastly" to say the last thing in a list. For example, we can say "First, put the tea into the cup. Then, add some hot water. Wait a few minutes and, lastly, drink it".

When do we use the word "lastly"? We use the word "lastly" ...

Give me an example, please. We need to paint this office, buy some new computers, and lastly get better desks for everyone

Instead of "at last" or "lastly", we can use the word "finally".

Which word can we use instead of "at last" or "lastly" ? We can use the word "finally" instead of "at last" or "lastly"

Give me an example of the word "finally", please. Ah, finally! Here's the bus! She finished her work, turned off the computer, put on her jacket, and finally left the office.

531 ## Clauses group Conjunction

A clause is any group of words with a subject and a main verb. For example, "The door opened" is a clause; "I cooked the chicken" is a clause.

What's a clause? A clause is any group of words with a subject and a main verb

A conjunction is a word that joins clauses together to make long sentences. Some common conjunctions are words like "and", "because", "but", "so" and "if". The sentence "You can borrow my car" has only one clause. The sentence "You can borrow my car if you promise to be careful" contains two clauses, and they are joined together by the conjunction "if".

What's a conjunction? A conjunction is a word that joins clauses together to make long sentences

Give me an example of a sentence that contains two clauses joined together by a conjunction, please. I love chocolate because it tastes so good

Main clause

Dependent (or subordinate) clause

to make sense

A main clause contains the main message of the sentence. A dependent clause contains other information, for example about time. In the sentence "He'll cook dinner when he gets home", the main clause is "He'll cook dinner" and the dependent clause is "when he gets home". A main clause can make sense on its own; a dependent clause cannot. Dependent clauses are also known as subordinate clauses.

532 What's the difference between a main clause and a dependent clause? The difference between a main clause and a dependent clause is that a main clause contains the main message of the sentence, whereas a dependent clause contains other information

Which is the main clause in this sentence? "If I don't sleep enough, I feel tired." "I feel tired" is the main clause in that sentence

And which is the dependent clause? "If I don't sleep enough" is the dependent clause

With sentences like this, we can put the conjunction and dependent clause first, followed by a comma and then the main clause. For example, we can say "If you want, you can go home now" instead of "You can go home now if you want". However, the conjunctions "and ", "or" and "but" cannot start sentences like this.

Give me a sentence containing two clauses that starts with a conjunction, please. When I visit my mum, I'll tell her the news. If the weather is good, we can go for a walk in the park.

Which conjunctions cannot start a sentence like this? The conjunctions "and", "or" and "but" cannot start a sentence like this far a long way too far distant

The word "far" can be used in questions and negative sentences, but it is not generally used in positive sentences. We can use "a long way" instead.

537 Give me first a negative and then a positive answer to the following questions:

Is it far from here to the next town?

No, it isn't far ... ~ Yes, it's a long way ...

Did you walk very far yesterday?

No, I didn't walk very far ... ~ Yes, I walked a long way ...

One exception to this rule is the expression "too far", which communicates a negative idea. For example, we can say "It's too far to walk to the station. Let's get a taxi".

Give me an example of the expression "too far", please.

It's too far to walk to the station. Let's get a taxi.

We generally use the word "distant" instead of "far" as an adjective before a noun. For example, we say "The sailor came from a distant country", and "He is a distant relation of mine". If we want to be more emphatic, we can sometimes say "a far distant country" or "the far distant future" etc.

When do we generally use the word "distant" instead of "far"?

We generally use ... as an adjective before a noun

Give me an example, please.

I could see some sheep in a distant field

Do you have any distant relations living in another country?

The idiom ... "wait"

Give me an example, please.

Hang on a minute; I think I have his address in my book somewhere

Do Revision Exercise 43

LESSON 101

540 Relative clauses (1)

Relative pronoun relate to

I have a black cat
adjective

I have a cat which is black relative clause

The sentences "I have a black cat" and "I have a cat which is black" have the same meaning. In the second sentence, the clause "which is black" is called a relative clause, and, like the adjective "black" in the first sentence, it is telling us about the noun "cat". So, an adjective is a word that we use to describe a noun, and a relative clause is a clause that we use to describe a noun.

What is a relative clause? A relative clause is a clause that we use to describe a noun

We put a relative clause immediately after the noun it describes, and it usually starts with a word like "who", "which" or "that". We call these words relative pronouns. In the sentence "Here is my house, which I love very much", the relative pronoun "which" relates to (or means) "my house", so the clause "which I love very much" means "I love my house very much".

Where do we put a relative clause? We put a relative clause immediately after the noun it describes

What do we call the words "who", "which" and "that"? We call the words "who", "which" and "that" relative pronouns

The difference between "who", "which" and "that" is that we use "who" for people, "which" for things and animals, and "that" for people, things and animals.

541 What's the difference between “who”, “which” and “that”?

The difference between “who”, “which” and “that” is that ...

Give me a sentence with a relative clause in it, please.

I know a man who lives in that street.
The film that I saw yesterday was great.

Now, I will say two sentences and I want you to join them together using a relative clause.

Yesterday, I saw a film. The film lasted for three hours.

Yesterday, I saw a film that (or which) lasted for three hours

LESSON 102

546 so would I neither can he nor should they

We put the words "so", "neither" or "nor" at the beginning of a sentence when someone makes a statement and we want to reply that the same situation is true for us or somebody else.

For example, if someone says to you "I would like to visit London", and you would also like to visit London, as a short reply you can say "So would I" (instead of, for example, "I would too").

In a negative sentence, if someone says to you "I can't open this window", and you can't open it either, you can reply "Neither can I" or "Nor can I". There is no difference between the words "neither" and "nor".

When do we put the words "so", "neither" or "nor" at the beginning of a sentence?

We put the words ... when someone makes a statement and we want to reply that the same situation is true for us or somebody else.

If someone tells you that they would like some coffee, and you would also like some coffee, what can you reply?

If someone tells me that they would like some coffee, and I would also like some coffee, I can reply "So would I"

If someone tells you that they couldn't sleep last night, and you couldn't sleep either, what can you reply?

If someone tells me that they couldn't sleep last night, and I couldn't sleep either, I can reply "Neither could I" or "Nor could I"

We make this kind of short reply by using the words "so", "neither", or "nor", and by putting the auxiliary verb before the subject. For example, we say "So will I" and not "So I will". We can also use the verbs "have" and "be". For example, "Mary has a large house" – "So has Michael"; "He isn't a good cook" – "Neither is his wife".

547 How do we make this kind of short reply? We make this kind of short reply by using the words "so","neither", or "nor", and by putting the auxiliary verb before the subject

If there is no auxiliary verb, we use "do" in the short reply. For example, "He lives in this building" – "So does my sister".

If there is no auxiliary verb, which verb do we use? If there is no auxiliary verb, we use "do" in the short reply

Reply to the following statements as if the same situation is true for you:

I can speak English. So can I

I won't go there. Neither will I

I am a student. So am I

I haven't got a car. Neither have I

My mother lives a long way from here. So does mine

My best friend doesn't smoke. Nor does mine

This structure is not only used as a short reply to a statement. For example, we can say "I can speak French and so can my mother". This means the same as "I can speak French and my mother can speak French too".

What do I mean if I say "I can speak French and so can my mother"? If you say "I can ...", you mean that you can speak French and your mother can speak French too

LESSON 103

551 switch on switch off

What am I doing? You're switching the light on What am I doing? You're switching the light off

Preparatory "it" prepare

It is + adjective + infinitive with "to"

A preparatory "it" is when we use the word "it" at the beginning of a sentence to prepare us for information that comes later in the sentence. For example, in the sentence "It's unhealthy to drink a lot of coffee", the word "it" refers to the information "to drink a lot of coffee", and so the sentence means the same as "Drinking a lot of coffee is unhealthy". The sentence "It's nice to eat in a restaurant" means the same as "Eating in a restaurant is nice".

With a preparatory "it", we generally use the structure "It is" + adjective + infinitive with "to". For example, "It is not very easy to speak a foreign language well".

What do we mean by a preparatory "it"? By a preparatory "it" we mean that we use the word "it" at the beginning of a sentence to prepare us for some information that comes later in the sentence

LESSON 104

556 I think so I hope not pass (an exam)

We can use the words "so" and "not" to avoid repeating a whole sentence that someone has just said. For example, someone says to us "Did you remember to shut the door?" and we reply "Yes, I think so" or "No, I don't think so". The word "so" saves us repeating the whole sentence "Yes, I think I have shut the door" or "No, I don't think I have shut the door". The same is true of the word "not". For example, if someone asks us "Will it rain tomorrow?", we could reply "I hope not".

Why do we use the words "so" and "not" when replying to something that someone has just said?

We use the ... to avoid repeating the whole sentence

Give me some examples of this use of the word "so", please.

Give me some examples of the use of the word "not", please.

Is that right what James said? – I'm afraid not; I hope not; I suppose not

We can also use the word "so" at the beginning of a sentence when we already know something that someone has just told us. For example, if someone says "Peter has passed his exams", and we already know this fact, we can reply "So I have heard". We only use this structure with verbs that are connected with the idea of receiving information, such as "tell", "say", "hear", "read" etc.

When do we use the word "so" at the beginning of a sentence?

We use ... when we already know something that someone has just told us

557 Give me an example, please.

Someone says to us "Mr Jones has gone to Australia" and, knowing this fact, we reply "So we've been told"

shoot – shot – shot

1) The film was so sad that the girl cried the whole time
2) "Be careful how you cross the road!" the child's mother cried

Present perfect or past simple?

As we already know, the difference between the present perfect and the past simple is that we use the present perfect when we are thinking about time before and up to now, whereas we use the past simple when we are thinking about a specific past time. For example, "I have been here for twenty minutes; I arrived here twenty minutes ago".

564 What's the difference between the present perfect and the past simple?

The difference between ... is that we use the present perfect when we are thinking about time before and up to now, whereas we use the past simple when we are thinking about a specific past time

Give me an example of each, please.

I have been here for twenty minutes. I arrived here twenty minutes ago.

Now think about this sentence:

"I ate eggs for breakfast today."

In sentences like this, some students make the mistake of saying "I have eaten" because they are using the word "today". This is wrong. We say "I ate eggs for breakfast today" because, as the rule tells us, we are thinking about what happened at a specific past time – breakfast time. The fact that the word "today" is in the sentence changes nothing; we are not thinking about now. We are thinking about breakfast time, which is a specific past time.

Why do we say "I ate eggs for breakfast today" and not "I have eaten eggs for breakfast today"?

We say ... because we are thinking about what happened at a specific past time – breakfast time. We are not thinking about now.

Which of these two sentences is correct: "John got up quite late today" or "John has got up quite late today"? Of those two sentences, "John got up quite late today" is correct

Why? Because we are thinking about what happened at a specific past time – the time when John got up

LESSON 106

566 Adverbs of frequency frequency

Some common adverbs of frequency are: "never", "rarely", "occasionally", "sometimes", "often", "usually" and "always". These adverbs normally go after the first auxiliary verb. For example, "I have never been to Australia" or "He will always love her".

If there is no auxiliary verb, these adverbs normally go directly before the verb. For example, "They rarely go to the theatre" or "Steve usually drinks beer".

If the verb is negative, these adverbs normally go after the word "not". For example, "He has not often spoken to us" or "I haven't always had long hair".

Give me some examples of adverbs of frequency.
Some examples ... are "never", "rarely", "occasionally", "sometimes", "often", "usually" and "always"

Give me an example, please. All this work is driving me round the bend

Do Revision Exercise 46

LESSON 107

573 ## Indirect speech with questions, imperatives and requests

Questions

When we change a question from direct into indirect speech, we move the verb one step back into the past, we use "asked" instead of "said", and we do not use the question form or a question mark. For example,

(Direct speech) The teacher said "What is your name?"

(Indirect speech) The teacher asked me what my name was.

What do we do when we change a question from direct into indirect speech?

When we change ..., we move the verb one step back into the past, we use "asked" instead of "said", and we do not use the question form or a question mark

Give me an example, please.

I asked them what they wanted to drink

If the question does not contain a question word ("what", "where" etc.), we use the word "if" or "whether" instead. For example,

(Direct speech) I said "Are you busy, Emily?"

(Indirect speech) I asked Emily if (or whether) she was busy.

If the question does not contain a question word, what do we use instead?

If the ..., we use the word "if" or "whether" instead

574 Give me an example, please.

He asked her if (or whether) she spoke English

Now, I will ask you some questions and I want you to tell me what I said.

How old are you?

You asked me how old I was

Do your parents speak English? — You asked me if (or whether) my parents spoke English

Can you play the piano? — You asked me if (or whether) I could play the piano

Imperatives — command

When we change an imperative from direct into indirect speech, we use "told", "commanded" or "ordered", and we use the infinitive with "to" instead of the imperative. For example, (Direct speech) "Sit down, children!" she said.

(Indirect speech) She told the children to sit down.

What do we do when we change an imperative from direct into indirect speech? — When we change ..., we use "told", "commanded" or "ordered", and we use the infinitive without "to" instead of the imperative

Give me an example, please. — The king commanded him to leave

With negative imperatives, we put "not" before the infinitive. For example, (Direct speech) "Don't walk so fast, Jack!" said Lucy.

(Indirect speech) Lucy told Jack not to walk so fast.

575 With negative imperatives, what do we do? — With negative imperatives, we put "not" before the infinitive

Give me an example, please. — His mum told him not to get home late

Now, I will give you some orders and I want you to tell me what I said.

"Stand up!" — You told me to stand up

"Don't look at your book!" — You ordered me not to look at my book

"Correct your dictations!" — You told me to correct my dictations

Requests

When we change a request from direct into indirect speech, we use "asked", and we can use the same constructions that we use for indirect questions or imperatives. For example,

(Direct speech) I said "Will you open the window, please, Daniel?"

(Indirect speech) I asked Daniel if he would open the window.
or I asked Daniel to open the window.

The first construction makes the reported request sound a little more polite, but the second construction is more common, as it is quicker.

What do we do when we change a request from direct into indirect speech?

When we change ..., we use "asked",
and we can use the same constructions that we use for indirect questions or imperatives

576 Give me an example, please.

We asked them if they could show us the way or We asked them to show us the way

Now, I will make some requests and I want you to tell me what I said.

Could you lend me your book, please?

Time clause Conditional clause on condition that

Two common types of dependent clause are time clauses and conditional clauses.

What are two common types of dependent clause?

Two common types of dependent clause are time clauses and conditional clauses

A time clause communicates time information for the action in the main clause. For example, in the sentence "I'll cook dinner when I get home", the time clause is "when I get home". It communicates when I will cook dinner. Time clauses can start with the words "when", "after", "before", "until" etc.

Give me a sentence with a time clause in it, please.

I bought some wine before I went home.
After I eat breakfast, I always brush my teeth.

A conditional clause usually starts with the word "if" and communicates conditional information for the action in the main clause. For example, in the sentence "You can borrow my car if you promise to be careful", the conditional clause is "if you promise to be careful". It communicates that you can borrow the car only on condition that you promise to be careful.

Give me a sentence with a conditional clause in it, please.

I would be able to fly if I was a bird.
If she exercises every day, she will get fit.

We must remember that we cannot use future tenses in time clauses and conditional clauses; we use present tenses instead. For example, we cannot say "When the lesson will finish, I will go home". Instead, we must say "When the lesson finishes, I will go home". We cannot say "If the weather will be good, we will go to the park". Instead, we must say "If the weather is good, we will go to the park".

Can we use future tenses in time clauses and conditional clauses?

No, we can't ...

582 What do we use instead? We use present tenses instead

Give me some examples, please. She is going to buy a house in the countryside when she retires.
They will call me tomorrow if they have any problems.

The words "or so" mean "about". For example, "I learnt English for two years or so" means "I learnt English for about two years".

What do the words "or so" mean? The words "or so" mean "about"

Give me an example, please. There were thirty-five people or so at the party run a business etc.

Do you think you could run a large factory, or don't you think you could even run a small coffee shop? I think I could run ...
~ I don't think I could run ... or even run ...

587 Emphasizing pronouns case

Sometimes, we use the words "myself", "yourself", "himself" etc. when we want to emphasize information about who does the action in a particular sentence. For example, the difference between the sentences "John cooked the meal" and "John cooked the meal himself" is that the second sentence emphasizes that it was John who cooked the meal and not someone else. In this sentence, we call the word "himself" an emphasizing pronoun. Notice that the emphasizing pronouns are the same words as the reflexive pronouns.

What words can we use when we want to emphasize the person who does the action in a particular sentence? When we want ..., we can use "myself", "yourself", "himself" etc.

What do we call these words? We call ... emphasizing pronouns

Give me three sentences containing emphasizing pronouns, please.

People cannot usually repair laptops themselves; they have to take them to a computer repair centre.
She always drove the car herself.

Does someone else usually make breakfast for you or do you make it yourself? Someone else usually ... ~ I usually ... myself

Sometimes we use an emphasizing pronoun with the meaning of "alone" or "without any help", in which case we generally put the word "by" in front of it. For example, "I did the translation myself" emphasizes the fact that I did the translation and not someone else, whereas "I did the translation by myself" means that I did the translation alone, without any help.

588 What's the difference between these two sentences: "He painted the house himself" and "He painted the house by himself"?

The difference ... is that the first sentence emphasizes the fact that he ... not someone else, whereas the second sentence means he ... alone, without any help

Does this door shut by itself? Yes, this door shuts ...
~ No, this door doesn't shut ...

Do students answer questions in these lessons by themselves?

If you followed ..., it'd eventually lead you to the mountains or hills 593 And if you followed it downstream, where would it eventually lead you to?

If you followed ..., it'd eventually lead you to the sea or a lake

If you saw a stream of people streaming out of a building in a hurry, what'd you think?

If I saw ..., I'd think that either the building was on fire or that the people had just finished work

Relative clauses (2): defining and non-defining clauses define

There are two types of relative clause: defining clauses and non-defining clauses.

Defining clauses identify (or define) which person or thing we are talking about. For example:

My brother who lives in France is rich.

This means I have more than one brother, and the clause "who lives in France" identifies which one of my brothers I am talking about. It is a defining clause because, without it, you do not know which person I mean.

Non-defining clauses do not identify a person or thing, but simply give us extra information about them. For example:

My mother, who lives in France, is rich.

In this sentence, the clause "who lives in France" is a non-defining clause because it does not identify the person I am talking about. It is simply extra information about my mother. Notice that a non-defining clause is separated from the main part of the sentence by commas.

What are the two types of relative clause? The two types ...

594 What's the difference between a defining relative clause and a non-defining relative clause? The difference between ... is that a defining relative clause identifies which person or thing we are talking about, whereas a non-defining relative clause simply gives us extra information about them

Give me an example of a sentence containing a defining relative clause, please. The milk that she bought this morning is in the fridge

Give me an example of a sentence containing a non-defining relative clause, please. My new glasses, which I bought yesterday, are really expensive

How is a non-defining clause separated from the main part of the sentence? A non-defining clause ... by commas

We can use the relative pronoun "that" instead of "who" or "which" in defining clauses; we cannot use "that" in non-defining clauses. For example:

The woman that works in the library is very tall.

The train that leaves at 6 p.m. is always full.

but

London, which is the capital of England, is very large.

When can we use the relative pronoun "that" instead of "who" or "which"? We can use ... in defining clauses; we cannot use "that" in non-defining clauses

Give me an example, please. The biscuits that I ate were very tasty

Correct the mistake in this sentence, please: London, that is the capital of England, is a big city.
